DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Leach (U.S. Patent 5,640,299) in view of Beigel et al., hereinafter Beigel (U.S. Patent 5,594,266), both newly cited.

Leach discloses in figure 13 an ESD protection circuit comprising a pad, shown as PAD in the figure, and a plurality of transistors, shown as FET transistors, each connected to the pad, and the transistors having a plurality of resistors connected to an input terminal, the resistors are in parallel, and there are no resistors between the transistors and ground (Vss) to discharge static electricity through the transistors to ground and avoid reduction in gain.

Leach does not expressly show a main chip and a conductor creating a short between the pad and the chip.

Beigel discloses in figure 3 a pad 52, which connected with a conductor 50 to the internal chip shown in the figure. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to use the ESD protection device of Leach invention in a chip and pad configuration, as Beigel teaches, since it is known in the art that ESD is a common problem when connecting an input pad with a sensitive integrated circuit, or a chip.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 2-5 are allowed.
4. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

The primary reason for indication of allowability of claims 2-5 is the inclusion therein, of the limitations of a first insulating film on a transistor on a substrate, a hole in the insulating film to connect to an input terminal of the transistor; a buffer layer on the insulating film in the first contact hole; a second insulating film with a second hole to the buffer layer; and a pad on the second insulating film in the vicinity of the second contact hole for discharging static electricity from the pad and the transistor to ground.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 and 6 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Note that the newly added limitation, that is making a direct short connection between the pad and the chip is rendered obvious in view of the newly cited references, as discussed above.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
